On Thursday 28th April, our school community celebrated a day for the Military Child. Our students and staff held a mufti day in which they were invited to wear something Purple, the colour of the military child. Activities have been held throughout the month including, sharing their stories, sharing their feelings and experiences of being a military child and learning about the Dandelion flower and its meaning.

In the afternoon, we welcomed some of our Military parents into the classroom to tell their own stories and answer some questions our students had. A massive thank you to all who volunteered to come in and put on a display for our pupils. They all enjoyed the day.

Thank you again to all parents for your ongoing support.
